Passing it On

Alumni have always held faculty positions at St. Benedict's Prep. In recent years, their presence grew stronger as an increasing number of young alumni returned to The Hive as teachers. Currently, nine alumni, spanning the Classes of 2001 to 2013, are teaching English, math, history, science, criminal justice and physical education and passing on lessons and traditions to the next generation of Gray Bees.

Elliott McFarland '12 teaches Algebra II and is assistant coach for the fencing team. He earned a degree in mechanical engineering, but when he saw an opening in the Math Department at his alma mater: "It just felt right. The engineering jobs didn't really speak to me." Being a former student is definitely an asset when you teach at The Hive. "I can identify with the kids," Mr. McFarland said. "And I'm more understanding of the scheduling changes and normal craziness that goes on in a student-led school."

MESSAGE OF THANKS

Pride is at an all-time high at The Hive.

When the fall term began, 751 students were enrolled at St. Benedict's Prep, a highly successful start to our K-13 educational model that is strengthening our mission and transforming the lives of young people in and around Newark.

One hundred and six young men graduated last June, and the overwhelming majority matriculated to institutions of higher education. New Jersey Institute of Technology became the third university, following Seton Hall University and Rutgers University-Newark, to join the School's early college credit program, and more students than ever are participating.

The influence of St. Benedict's has spread far beyond the gates of Newark Abbey. The Vox Institute is helping schools and education leaders around the nation adapt St. Benedict's model to their own learning communities and Headmaster Fr. Edwin D. Leahy, O.S.B. '63 inspired thousands of people at conferences and national appearances, including a stirring speech before 12,000 during Convocation at Liberty University in October.

On the heels of this momentum comes our Sesquicentennial in 2018, a milestone few could have imagined in 1972, when St. Benedict's closed, or when the School reopened the following year. Yet, here we are: better, stronger and more prominent than at any time in our 150-year history, thanks to the generosity of 3,689 donors recognized in this Annual Report. The standout year includes more than $7.3 million raised and 32 percent alumni participation, a new record that goes a long way toward sustaining St. Benedict's for today's Gray Bees and all of those who will follow.

On behalf of the monks, our students, faculty, administration, staff and the Board of Trustees, thank you for placing your faith in St. Benedict's Prep.

Sincerely,

LABOR OF LOVE

Carlos S. Farinhas '85, Fr. Maynard Nagengast, O.S.B. and Br. Simon Peter Clayton, O.S.B. '08 in the newly renovated monastery garden. Mr. Farinhas, a civil engineer, credits Fr. Maynard's technical drawing class for starting his career.

The recent renovation of the monastery garden at Newark Abbey was a true labor of love involving multiple members of the St. Benedict's Prep community. "We had a lot of input and help," said Br. Simon Peter Clayton, O.S.B. '08, the novice who oversaw the design and refurbishment of the garden.

"It should be a contemplative place for everyone."

Carlos S. Farinhas '85, civil engineer and president of Rock Solid Construction in Newark, donated materials and labor. Kelly Forsyth, owner of Kelly Garden Design of Glen Ridge, lent her expertise to the project and collaborated with Br. Simon on the garden's design. A team of St. Benedict's students, teachers and recent alumni pitched in with the plantings and landscaping, including Mr. Farinhas' three sons, Tristan '16, Hunter '18 and Dean '19, members of the 520 Corp., St. Benedict's student-run maintenance organization, and David Rodriguez '96, Chair of the Foreign Language Department and Director of the 520 Corp.

"Time spent working in the garden was a joy," said Fr. Maynard Nagengast O.S.B., who served as unofficial gardener of the space for many years. Looking around the revitalized garden, he remarked, "It makes it livable, enjoyable again. But it shouldn't only be for the monks. It should be a contemplative place for everyone."

COLLEGE STARTS EARLY AT THE HIVE

More Gray Bees take advantage of higher education program

Gray Bees have more opportunities than ever to earn college credit while attending St. Benedict's Prep. This year, New Jersey Institute of Technology joined the roster of early college options that include Rutgers University-Newark and Project Acceleration, a concurrent enrollment program with Seton Hall University. During the fall term, 14 students participated in The Hive's college programs, the most since its inception in 2016.

"Students have to earn the opportunity, but they walk away from high school with a college transcript and credits that are transferable."

— Michelle Tuorto

At NJIT, qualified seniors can take classes in calculus and engineering, and at Rutgers-Newark, the course offering for the fall semester is computer science. Project Acceleration now includes seven courses pre-approved by Seton Hall: advanced art, African-American history, environmental science, evolution, jazz band, meteorology and Spanish IV, which are taught here by St. Benedict's faculty. Advanced sophomores, juniors and seniors are invited to participate in Project Acceleration. "Students have to earn the opportunity," explained Dean of Faculty Michelle Tuorto H '16. "But they walk away from high school with a college transcript and credits that are transferable."

College credit courses also foster intellectual rigor and the chance for students to explore new academic interests. When Mrs. Tuorto hears the words "It's so challenging" from participating students, she knows the program is working.

While the three institutions of higher education offer courses to St. Benedict's at a reduced rate, generous donors often make up the difference. A recent gift from Dr. John J. Healey '58 was instrumental in helping a number of Gray Bees enroll in classes at area universities. According to Mrs. Tuorto, gifts of all sizes provide a larger pool of support that directly impacts ambitious and talented students. "We don't want money to be an impediment for any of our guys to take advantage of this opportunity," she said.

$2 Million Scholarship Challenge Kicks Off Sesquicentennial

The challenge is on! To celebrate the 150th anniversary of the founding of St. Benedict's Prep, two benefactors established The Sesquicentennial Scholarship Challenge. Its goal is to raise an additional $2 million in scholarships.

The benefactors, Mike Caruso '63 and Wayne Hockmeyer, a new friend of The Hive, will match any new or increased gift to the annual scholarship fund, dollar for dollar, up to $1 million through June 30, 2018. "St. Benedict's has been an anchor in my life for nearly 60 of the school's 150 years," said Mr. Caruso. "I can think of no better way to celebrate this milestone than by helping ensure more scholarship money is available for the next generation."

"I've only come to know St. Benedict's recently, but I am inspired by the work of Fr. Ed, the monks, and, of course, the faculty and students," said Mr. Hockmeyer. "Ensuring access to this special place is what motivated me to step forward. I hope many alumni and friends join Mike and me."

The impact of the challenge is significant. For instance, a $100 gift from a first-time donor would immediately double to $200. Longtime donors also have an incentive to step up giving to celebrate St. Benedict's milestone anniversary. If an annual gift of $250 increases to $350, the Sesquicentennial Challenge will match the $100 of added support. Gifts can be made online at sbp.org/challenge.

A series of special events will commemorate the Sesquicentennial including a Mass in early 2018, an original production by the Drama Guild and the publication of Ever Dear: 150 Years at St. Benedict's Prep (see After Class on page 4). The Annual Scholarship Gala on May 10, 2018, will be a celebratory program in honor of the 150th anniversary. Stay tuned for updates by visiting sbp.org or following St. Benedict's on Facebook and Twitter.

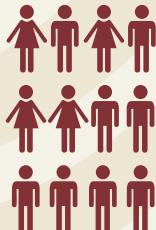

St. Benedict's Hits Enrollment Target

The enrollment numbers look strong. As this magazine went to press, 751 students were enrolled in the Elementary (co-ed, K-6), Middle (single-sex male and female, Grades 7-8) and Prep (all-male, grades 9 through post-graduate) Divisions at St. Benedict's Prep. The School has hit its enrollment projection since announcing its comprehensive K-13 educational model last spring.

"People are excited," said Director of Admissions Mario Gallo, who continues to recruit students for the current academic year while gearing up for 2018-2019. He reports the Middle and Prep Divisions experienced an estimated 5 percent increase in enrollment over last year and a robust start for the all-female seventh and eighth grades. "We have 17 girls enrolled, and they are doing extremely well," said Mr. Gallo.

A series of Fall Open Houses is expected to further boost awareness of St. Benedict's K-13 model to the greater community. More than 96 prospective students and their parents attended the first Open House on October 14. Alumni and friends interested in an upcoming Open House or the application process should contact Doris Lamourt at (973) 792-5744 for further information.

AFTERCLASS

WITH FR. AUGUSTINE CURLEY, O.S.B. '74

“I don’t think we consciously set out to document change, but when you look back and see the photographs, certain things stand out.”

Ever Dear: 150 Years of St. Benedict's Prep*, a photographic journal celebrating the tremendous history and tradition of The Hive, will be published early next year. Fr. Augustine Curley, O.S.B. '74, Chair of the Religion Department and archivist for St. Benedict's and Newark Abbey, sat down for a conversation about the commemorative book, the evolution it documents and the significance of the Sesquicentennial.

Ever Dear spans 150 years. How did you edit St. Benedict's extensive history into one book?

Our archive has thousands of images going back to the 1860s, the very beginning of photography. We had help from Matt Dellaguzzo, a graduate student in the museum management program at Seton Hall. He compiled the photographs, wrote the captions and I would fill him in on the people or history behind the images. We went through a few rounds of edits to get a nice selection of pictures from the beginning of St. Benedict's to the present.

The first part of the book is chronological, from the founding up until 1972, when the School closed. It's organized roughly by time period: World War I, the Great Depression, World War II. The second part begins when St. Benedict's reopened in 1973, and is presented in a thematic way. So, there's a section devoted to experiential education, including backpacking, as well as student leadership and athletics. It's more characteristic of the School and guys' shared experience post-1972.

What are some of the big changes documented over the years?

I don't think we consciously set out to document change, but when you look back and see the photographs, certain things stand out. The uniforms change from blazers to nothing, then jacket and tie, sweaters and the hoodie. The growth of the campus is striking. We have aerial photos where you can see how the School went from a tiny piece of land to a much broader property. And if you look at the faculty photographs, you see it going from mostly monks to lay faculty.

What remains the same?

In terms of the Prep Division, you see the long athletic tradition, but also lots of pictures of students studying and in classrooms; academics and sports are always balanced throughout. The interactions between students and faculty are also consistent. While the color and ethnicity of our student body may have changed, it's still teenage boys who will do what teenage boys will do.

You were a student when St. Benedict's closed in 1972. Would your 16-year-old self ever have imagined the School celebrating its Sesquicentennial?

As far as most of us were concerned, that was it, the School was closed. At the time, I didn't know there were plans to open a new school. People may not realize that it was not the intention to reopen St. Benedict's Prep. The educational model was a street academy for kids who could not make it in a regular school setting. The name was St. Benedict's School.

The monks were following the model of the street academies, but what the African-American parents wanted was to be part of the tradition from which they had been long excluded. At a meeting soon after the School reopened, a parent named Carl Lamb raised his hand and asked, "If it was good enough to be called St. Benedict's Prep when it was all of you, why isn't it good enough to be called St. Benedict's Prep now that it's all of us?" The next day, the School became St. Benedict's Prep.

You made a lot of material from the School archive available for interdisciplinary class projects. What do students gain from learning about St. Benedict's history?

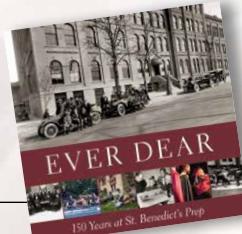

One of the things they gain, which a lot of the kids don't have in their life outside of here, is that sense of tradition. They are part of this 150-year tradition. Students also begin to realize the extensive network we have and their connection to it.

The interdisciplinary projects are just one aspect of the Sesquicentennial. We have all these treasures that can be shared, so we're working on putting more material online. There are a number of oral histories that are being transcribed, and we digitized many episodes of High Street Views, a student-produced news program from the 80s that will be available on the Newark Abbey Archives YouTube channel. Photographs that didn't make it into Ever Dear can be seen on our Flickr account, NewarkBenArchives. And we're still generating ideas. The goal is to make all of these resources available to more people and build connections with St. Benedict's.

Anything else you want to mention about Ever Dear or the Sesquicentennial?

The book is certainly a vehicle for getting more history out to the St. Benedict's community. But we hope it's going to inspire donors, too. Guys may think, "St. Benedict's doesn't need my money because they've got big donors. What do they need my 10 dollars for?" Not true! Participation and the percentage of your class giving are important. It all goes a long way to help us.

So if you haven't given recently, or haven't given at all and the book brings back fond memories of your times here, you can get out your checkbook and donate. Or donate your time. If you like the archival material we put out there, share your story with us.

Pre-order your copy of Ever Dear: 150 Years of St. Benedict's Prep at StBenedicts150.PictorialBook.com before December 31, and receive the special price of $29.95, a $15 savings on this limited-edition collector's item. All proceeds benefit The Hive.

OUR RIPPLE EFFECT

The Hive is the central point in a ripple effect that is spreading hope and new ideas to schools, organizations and communities in the United States and abroad.

The Vox Institute Bolsters Our National Reputation

The 60 Minutes broadcast on St. Benedict's Prep may have introduced The Hive to the nation, but The Vox Institute, which celebrated its first anniversary in September, has enhanced the School's standing as a leader and innovator in urban education.

Vox is Latin for voice, and the Institute was established to lend guidance, expertise and support to people and organizations that want to adapt St. Benedict's leadership and community building model for existing or new schools.

Since its inception, schools, youth organizations and programs from New York to Texas, and even Jamaica, have expressed interest in the St. Benedict's model. The Institute is currently providing service to five educational entities throughout the U.S., including the Baltimore City Public Schools.

"The ethos of St. Benedict's is always to help," explained Louis Lainé '12, the Institute's director. In the past year, the Vox initiative has moved beyond responding to questions about St. Benedict's to something more substantial. In one recent engagement, Vox worked with a new principal to shape the climate and culture of his inner city school. While St. Benedict's is giving, it is also learning. "We're learning how to be helpful," stressed Mr. Lainé. "We're formalizing the kinds of help we're giving and molding it into effective support."

Communities throughout the nation have connected with The Vox Institute for guidance on adapting the St. Benedict's model for their own schools.

The Hive is making more connections abroad with international student exchanges with schools in Holland and Israel.

Two Emmy® Nominations for 'Resurrection of St. Benedict's Prep'

"The Resurrection of St. Benedict's Prep," broadcast by 60 Minutes in 2016, received two nominations at the 38th Annual News and Documentary Emmy® Awards. The 13-minute segment detailing how students at St. Benedict's succeed at an incredibly high rate was recognized by The National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences in the following categories: Outstanding Feature Story in a Newsmagazine and Outstanding Writing.

60 Minutes segment on St. Benedict's Prep was recognized with two Emmy® nominations in 2017.

WHATEVER HURTS

HURTS ME

Headmaster Fr. Edwin Leahy, O.S.B. '63 shared the St. Benedict's story with an audience of 12,000 during Convocation at Liberty University in October.

Fr. Edwin Spreads the Word

The deeply held principles of St. Benedict's Prep reached new audiences in the U.S. and abroad in 2017.

Headmaster Fr. Edwin Leahy, O.S.B. '63 motivated thousands of people at conferences like Catalyst West, an event focused on next-generation leaders in the Church, spoke to educators at the University of Notre Dame and served as a panelist on "The Newark Rebellion of 1967" at the National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, D.C.

During a tour of Israel last spring, Fr. Edwin was introduced to the Amal education network of 128 schools that emphasize the sciences, technology and the arts and serve a diverse population of students. The connection led to a joint collaboration between St. Benedict's and the Amal School in Hadera. Students from both schools will work together on a science project and plans are underway for a student exchange program. Six Amal students will visit St. Benedict's during the winter term and six Gray Bees will travel to Israel next spring.

This program is the second international student exchange at St. Benedict's. Fifteen Gray Bees spent a week immersed with Dutch students and their families last March. The Hive returned the hospitality when we welcomed our new Dutch friends to Newark in September.

Graduates: Our Living Testament

Benedict's students learn to live our motto "Whatever hurts my brother hurts me," in and out of school. Every Gray Bee is instilled with the understanding that their actions cast a wider reflection on their classmates and school. The motto radiates far beyond the gates of Newark Abbey.

Every spring, we send 100 or more young men into the world who represent St. Benedict's values and ideals. "Nothing feels better than making your family proud," said Farad Lowther '10. "Coming back to the Hive...seeing your brothers prosper. It's truly an amazing feeling. It must be similar to the feelings of a proud mom when seeing her son take his first few steps."

With 98 percent of graduates matriculating to college and 87 percent earning or on track to earn a higher education degree, alumni are a testament to St. Benedict's ripple effect. "Donors give because they want to effect change," said Chief Advancement Officer Michael Fazio. "The success of our guys and the impact they go on to make in the world has changed thousands of lives and transformed communities. That is a remarkable return on investment."

St. Benedict's graduates attend a wide range of colleges, including Ivy League, Catholic and public and private institutions of higher education.

Monte Cassino Society

Monte Cassino, the rocky hill near Rome, Italy and site of St. Benedict of Nursia's first monastery, is the physical foundation upon which the Benedictine Order was built. The Monte Cassino Society is a core group of alumni and friends who serve as the financial foundation of St. Benedict's Preparatory School. These generous believers have demonstrated an admirable dedication to the School's mission and students by making an investment of $1,000. Recent graduates (last 15 years) who invested at specific levels are recognized as Associate Members.

Support something special. Your legacy and their future.

St. Benedict's
PREPARATORY SCHOOL

Planned Gifts are simple to arrange and often return benefits back to you.

- » Make a gift today that costs you nothing through your will or trust
- » Receive guaranteed payments for life in return for your gift
- » Donate life insurance you no longer need
- » Save big on taxes by giving appreciated stocks, bonds or mutual funds
- » Donate your house or vacation property, take a tax deduction, and continue to use the property for as long as you want
- » Transfer money directly from your retirement account to meet your required minimum distribution and pay no federal income tax

GIFTS BY CLASS

We are grateful to our alumni for their generosity and continuous support. Annual Giving totals for each class include cash received, as well as gifts- and services-in-kind. Donors who made a pledge, but not a payment toward it, in FY16 are listed with their class and counted in Class Participation percentages. However, pledge amounts are not counted in Annual Giving totals to avoid duplicate counting in the subsequent years when payment is received. Honorary alumni are listed with their class, but are not counted in Participation or Annual Giving totals. Thank you.
